

PARSHAS NASO

Rav Mordechai Kalatsky
June 2, 23 | 13 Sivan, 5783

וַיְהִי הַמִּקְרָב בַּיּוֹם הָרִאשׁוֹן אֶת־קָרְבָּנוֹ נַחֲשׁוֹן בֶּן־עֲמִינֹדָב לְמִטֵּה יְהוּדָה:
"THE ONE WHO BROUGHT HIS OFFERING ON THE FIRST DAY WAS NACHSHON, SON OF AMINODOV, OF THE TRIBE OF YEHUDAH"
(Bamidbar 7:12)

During the twelve days of the dedication of the Tabernacle the heads of the twelve tribes each brought an offering. Although the offerings of the twelve leaders were the same, the Torah repeats them over and over with all of their details.

The Ralbag comments that this is to teach us the lesson that one person should not try to outdo another in order to boast or to feel above him. Therefore the Torah elaborates on how each one brought the same thing.

The goal in spiritual matters is to serve the Almighty, not to compete with anyone else. Competition has its motivating factor, but it also has many drawbacks. One-upmanship has no place in the fulfillment of Torah principles. A person who feels he needs to outdo others in order to get honor or to feel that he is the best is contrary to the concept of fulfilling commandments with pure intentions. When there is togetherness in accomplishment, everyone gains.

Let us find an opportunity this week to achieve a win win situation whether it be in business, family or community. When this happens the sum total of the whole is much greater than the parts!

Have an inspiring Shabbos!

Rabbi Kalatsky
