PARSHAS KORACH

Rav Mordechai Kalatsky
June 23, 23 | 4 Tamuz, 5783

ולא יהיה כקרח וקבצתו
THERE SHALL NOT BE LIKE KORACH AND HIS CONGREGATION."
(Bamidbar 17:5)

Rabbi Chaim Shmuelewitz commented that this verse tell us an important principle about quarrels. The verse is definitely a prohibition against being involved in quarrels. The thought can also be read: There will not be other quarrels like that of Korach and his followers. In this instance Moshe was one hundred percent right, and Korach was one hundred percent wrong. In most arguments and feuds even if one side is more correct than the other both sides are usually making some mistake.

When two people quarrel, each person usually tries to blame the other side for what he did or said. It is more productive for both people to ask themselves what they did to contribute to the quarrel. Even if it is ninety percent the other person's fault, if things said or did contribute ten percent, you should make every effort to eliminate that ten percent for the future. For example, a person might have spoken in a slightly angry tone or been a little sarcastic and the other person greatly overreacted. Most outside observers might blame the other person for what he did or said in his rage. But if you sincerely want to bring peace, you will have to work on your tone of voice and the content of what was said to stop provoking this person in the future. This is especially true for family quarrels.

Moreover in family quarrels neither side is really right or wrong. The personalities of the parties are different and each person can be one hundred percent right from his vantage point and personality type. Put those two people together and there is a strong clash. When a person stops blaming and condemning the other party, he will be calm enough to work out peaceful solutions.

For this week if I am involved in a personal quarrel do not focus on who is right and wrong, but focus on achieving peace. I should stop and ask myself, "What can be said or done so all people involved can be satisfied?"

Have a peaceful Shabbos!
Rabbi Kalatsky
